Categories of records in the system:

Categories of Records: These records contain names, job titles, organizations, suborganizations and addresses. Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

Routine Uses: To identify target audiences who have a need for specific project results or who have expressed an interest in receiving copies of project documentation; and to disseminate programmatic results in an efficient and effective manner. Uses of special codes -- organizational affiliation, modal informational need, and subject informational need -- will allow for a more efficient selection of audiences for specific types of reports, will permit analyzses of information needs, and estimates of report quantities needed. To communicate plans for scheduled conferences to likely participants and disseminate conference proceedings if applicable. To prepare mailing labels. Records are subject to examination by federal officials concerned with the dissemination of programmatic results or conference notification, but are not disclosed to members of the public (except through publication in conference proceedings of names of individuals who actually participated in each conference).

Retrievability:

Retrievability: By any attribute contained in the data base -- alphabetically by name, address or special attribute codes.

Access to the electronic data base is controlled by the computer telephone number, and name of individual responsible for the data base. Internally, the system is software protected so that people without these combinations of codes cannot even examine the data, let alone use it or modify it. Names are removed when the Postal Service reports an incorrect address with no forwarding address or when individuals request removal.

No record or information contained in a system of records is disclosed to an individual nor is any correction of a record in accordance with Subpart E made at the request of an individual unless that individual demonstrates that he or she is who he or she claims to be. Normally, identity can be proven for individuals who appear in person by the presentation of an identifying document issued by a recognized organization (e.g., a driver's license or a credit card) and which contains a means of verification such as a photograph or a signature. For requests by mail, the unique identifier used in the system should be included if known. Responses to mail requests are normally sent only to the name and address listed in the system of records. In the case of particularly sensitive records, additional identification requirements may be imposed. In such cases, these additional requirements are listed in the public notice for the system and in the appropriate appendix to this part.

§ 10.39 Location of records.

Each record made available under this subpart is available for inspection and copying during regular working hours at the place where it is located or, upon reasonable notice, at the document inspection facilities of the Office of the Secretary or each administration as set forth in the appendix applicable to that office or administration. Original records may be copied but may not be released from custody. Upon payment of the appropriate fee, copies are mailed to the requester.

Subpart E—Correction of Records

§ 10.41 Requests for correction of records.

Any person who desires to have a record pertaining to that person corrected shall submit a written request detailing the correction and the reasons the record should be so corrected. Requests for correction of records shall be submitted in accordance with the procedures of the organization set forth in Appendices B through J to this part for the appropriate operating element of the Department.

§ 10.43 Time limits.

Within ten days (excluding Saturday, Sunday, and legal holidays) of the receipt in accordance with § 10.41 of a request by an individual to amend a record pertaining to him, the receipt of the request is acknowledged in writing. If a determination is made to correct the record as requested, the correction is promptly made. If a determination is made not to correct a record the individual is informed promptly of the right to appeal in accordance with Subpart F. If an appeal of a refusal to correct a record is in accordance with Subpart F, a determination whether to correct the record is made within thirty days (excluding Saturday, Sunday and legal holidays) of the receipt of the appeal unless, for good cause shown the Administrator concerned, or in the case of the Office of the Secretary, the General Counsel, extends such period. Where an extension is taken, the party taking the appeal is promptly notified of such fact.

§ 10.45 Statement of disagreement.

If a determination is made not to amend a record, the requester is informed of the right to file a concise statement setting forth the reasons for disagreement with the refusal to amend. In any disclosure containing information about which an individual has filed such a statement of disagreement, the portions of the record which are disputed are noted clearly and copies of the statement of disagreement provided. If the Administrator concerned or his or her delegee, or in the case of the Office of the Secretary, the General Counsel or his or her delegee, deems it appropriate, copies of a concise statement of the reasons for not making the amendments requested may be provided along with the statement of disagreement.

Subpart F—Procedures for Reconsidering Decisions not to Grant Access to or Amend Records

§ 10.51 General.

(a) Each officer or employee of the Department who, upon a request by a member of the public for a record under this part, makes a determination that access is not to be granted or who determines not to amend a record in a requested manner, gives a written statement of the reasons for that determination to the person making the request and indicates the name and title or position of each person responsible for the denial of such request and the procedure for appeal within the Department.

(b) Any person:

(1) Who has been given a determination pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section, that access will not be granted; or

(2) Who has been informed that an amendment to a requested record will not be made;

may apply to the Administrator concerned, or in the case of the Office of the Secretary, to the General Counsel for review of that decision. A determination that access will not be granted or a record amended is not administratively final for the purposes of judicial review unless it was made by the Administrator concerned or his or her delegee, or the General Counsel or his or her delegee, as the case may be. Upon a determination that an appeal will be denied, the requester is informed in writing of the reasons for the determination, and the names and titles or positions of each person responsible for the determination, and that the determination may be appealed to the District Court of the United States in the district in which the complainant resides, or has his or her principal place of business, or in which the records are located, or in the District of Columbia.

(c) Each application for review must be made in writing and must include all information and arguments relied upon by the person making the request. It is recommended that such request be made within 180 days of the date of the initial denial; however, exceptions to this time period are considered in the event that a longer time is required for good reasons.

(d) Upon a determination that a request for the correction of a record will be denied, the requester is informed that he may file a concise statement in accordance with § 10.45.

(e) Each application for review must indicate that it is an appeal from a denial of a request made under the Privacy Act. The envelope in which the application is sent should be marked prominently with the words "Privacy Act." If these requirements are not met, the time limits described in § 10.43 do not begin to run until the application has been identified by an employee of the Department as an application under the Privacy Act and has been received by the appropriate office.

c. When a Systems Manager or other cognizant official in the Office of the Secretary determines that a request for access should be denied, the request and the reason(s) for the determination are referred to the Assistant Secretary for Administration for decision. 4. Access to Records.

a. The Coast Guard honors only those requests for notification, access, or amendment made by:

(1) The individual to whom the record pertains;

(2) The parent or guardian of a minor to whom the record pertains;

(3) The legal guardian of a person to whom the record pertains when that person has been declared incompetent by reason of physical or mental disability by a court having jurisdiction of the matter; or

If made by a person other than the individual to whom the record pertains, the request must specify the relationship of the requester to that individual.

b. Written requests for information or amendment must be signed by the requester. Requests for access to records containing sensitive or detailed personnel information (including, but not limited to, earnings and tax statements, employee payroll records, employee grievance and appeal files, civilian, officer, and enlisted personnel files, and health and medical records (subject to the conditions of 49 CFR 10.33 (b)) may be required to contain the following notarized certification:

I, ————, do hereby certify that I am the individual to whom the record in question pertains.

(or)

I am the parent or guardian of the minor to whom the record in question pertains.

(or)

I am the legal guardian of the individual determined by a court to be incompetent to whom the record in question pertains.

5. Requests to Correct or Alter Records. The official responsible for administering a system of records, in consultation as appropriate with the System Manager, Privacy Act Coordinator, and Privacy Act Officer, initially determines whether to grant requests under 49 CFR 10.41 to amend records. Requests must be made as provided in paragraph 2a. of this appendix. Requests for amendment must contain a complete description of the item sought to be changed and documentation to substantiate the grounds for the requested change. The Coast Guard acknowledges the receipt of completed requests for amendment within ten working days. As promptly as possible the Coast Guard advises the requester whether or not the change has been made, and in cases where a change has been made, transmits a copy of the amended record to the requester.

a. When a request for access to a record or amendment of a record is denied, in whole or in part, the manager of the system of records involved notifies the requester in writing, of the reasons for the denial and furnishes the requester a statement of the name and position or title of each person responsible for the denial. The requester also is advised of the right to file a written appeal of the adverse decision within 180 days of receipt of the initial denial. Appeals must be addressed to: Commandant (G-CMA), U.S. Coast Guard Headquarters, 400 Seventh Street, SW., Washington, D.C. 20590.

b. Within 30 working days of the receipt of a written appeal, the Commandant or his designee makes an independent review of the record and decides whether or not to make the requested disclosure or amendment. If the appeal is granted, the Coast Guard promptly notifies the requester of the decision in writing and transmits to the requester a copy of the record or amended record. If the appeal is denied, the Coast Guard promptly notifies the requester, in writing, of the reasons for the denial and furnishes the requester a statement of the name and position or title of each person responsible for the denial. The Coast Guard also informs the requester of the right to seek judicial review of the adverse decision pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(g)(1).

c. In addition to appealing an adverse determination of a request to amend a record, the requester may file a concise "statement of disagreement" setting forth the reasons for disagreeing with the refusal of the Coast Guard to amend the record. The notification by the Coast Guard of the denial of an initial request for amendment or the denial of an administrative appeal for an amendment informs the requester of the right to file a statement of disagreement.

d. The Commandant of the Coast Guard, by Commandant Instruction 5212.11 (September 26, 1975), has redelegated to the Chief of Staff the authority under 49 CFR Part 10 to:

(1) Exempt systems of records from certain provisions of the Privacy Act;

(2) Make final administrative determinations not to disclose or amend a record; and

(3) Issue extensions of review time.

This authority may not be redelegated further.

6. Personal Identification Requirements.

a. When an individual requests notification, access, or amendment in person, he or she must show identification such as a driver's license, military or employment identification card, credit card, or medicare card. An individual requesting in person information about or amendment to a "sensitive" record may be required to complete the notarized certification set forth in paragraph 4.b of this appendix.

b. The Coast Guard may require more specific information in order to establish the identify of a requester. For example, the Coast Guard may require that a legal guardian or personal representative produce certified copies of court documents appointing him to his position. The Coast Guard may independently verify the identity of a requester by telephone contact with the requester, personal identification by Coast Guard employees who may know the requester, or any other lawful means considered appropriate under the circumstances.

c. An individual may be accompanied by a person of the individual's choosing while reviewing records to which he or she has been granted access, provided that the individual signs a statement authorizing the accompanying person to do so. An individual granted access to a record may be required to sign and notarize a statement authorizing the Coast Guard to release the record to a person (e.g., his attorney) designated by the individual.

d. No request for information or amendment is considered complete until all necessary identification material has been provided. No copies of records are provided to individuals until they pay appropriate fees as set forth in 49 CFR Subpart H.

3. Access to Records:

a. Each individual desiring to determine whether a record pertaining to him or her is contained in a system of records, or desiring access to such record, or to obtain a copy of such record, shall make request to the appropriate System Manager. In appropriate circumstances, oral requests are acted upon. Each request must specify the name of the requesting individual and the system of records in which the subject record is located or thought to be located.

4. Requests to Correct or Alter Records:

a. The FHWA allows individuals to request amendment of their personal records to the extent that such amendment does not violate existing statutes, regulations, or administrative procedures. Requests to amend personnel records of active employees should be addressed to the responsible system managers specified in paragraph 2 above.

b. The System Managers provide written acknowledgment of the receipt of a request to amend a record to the individual within 10 days. However, if the request can be reviewed, processed and the individual notified of compliance or denial within the 10-day working period, no acknowledgment is required.

c. If the System Manager agrees with an individual's request to amend the person's record, the following steps are taken:

1. Correct the record accordingly.

2. Advise the individual in writing, and

3. If an accounting of disclosure has been made, advise all previous recipients of the record of the fact that the correction was made and the substance of the correction.

d. If the System Manager disagrees with all or any portion of the request to amend a record, he or she:

1. Proceeds as described above with respect to those portions of the record which will be amended.

2. Advises the individual of the refusal and the reason for not amending a record, indicating the name and title or position of each person responsible for the denial, and

3. Informs the individual of the right to appeal the decision not to amend a record to: Associate Administrator for Administration, Federal Highway Administration, Washington, D.C. 20590.

e. If after this review the FHWA refuses to amend the record on the individual requested, the FHWA advises the individual:

1. Of the refusal and the reason for it,

2. Of the individual's right to file a concise statement of the reasons for disagreeing with the decision of the FHWA,

3. The procedures for filing the statement of disagreement,

4. That the statement which is filed will be made available to anyone to whom the record is subsequently disclosed, and

5. Of the individual's right to seek judicial review of the FHWA's refusal to amend a record.

f. The final FHWA determination on the individual's request is concluded within 30 days of the receipt of the appeal unless for good cause shown, the Associate Administrator for Administration extends such period. Such final administrative decision addresses all information and arguments relied upon by the individual.

g. Each application for review by FHWA must indicate that it is an appeal from a denial of a request made under the Privacy Act. The envelope in which the application is sent should be marked prominently with the words "Privacy Act".

If these requirements are not met, the time limits described in § 10.43 do not begin until the application has been identified by an employee of the FHWA as an application under the Privacy Act and has been received by the appropriate office.

h. The Associate Administrator for Administration may require the person making a request to furnish additional information, or proof of factual allegations, and may order other appropriate proceedings. His or her decision as to the availability of a record or whether to amend a record is administratively final subject to the concurrence of the DOT General Counsel or his or her delegate. However, requests for review of denials of information contained in Government-wide systems of personnel records, which includes the FHWA Personnel Records System, are handled by the Civil Service Commission in accordance with 5 CFR 294.108 and 5 CFR 297.108.

i. If the Associate Administrator for Administration also refuses to grant access or to correct the individual's record, he or she advises the individual of:

1. The reason(s) for the refusal and the names, and titles or positions of each person responsible for the denial;

2. The individual's right to file a statement of disagreement; that the statement will be made available to anyone to whom the record is subsequently disclosed, and to prior recipients of the record (see § 10.23(d)), and

3. The right to bring suit in the District Court of the United States in the district in which the individual resides, the district in which his principal place of business is located, the district in which the record(s) is located, or the District of Columbia.

5. Personal Identification Requirements:

3. Access to Records.

a. Each individual desiring to determine whether a record pertaining to him or her is contained in a system of records or to obtain a copy of such a record, shall make his request in writing to the appropriate official listed as responsible system manager in this appendix. Each request shall specify the name of the requesting individual and the system of records in which the subject record is located or thought to be located.

b. FRA allows individuals to request amendment of their personal records to the extent that such amendment does not violate existing statutes, regulations, or administrative procedures. Requests to amend personal records of active employees should be addressed to the responsible system managers specified in 2.3A–D.

c. The system managers provide written acknowledgment of the receipt of a request to amend a record to the individual within ten days. However, if the request can be reviewed, processed and the individual notified of compliance or denial within the ten-day working period, no acknowledgment is required.

d. If FRA agrees with an individual's request to amend the person's record, the following steps are taken:

1. Advises the individual in writing;

2. Corrects the record accordingly; and

3. If a prior disclosure has been made, advises all previous recipients of the record of the correction and its substance.

e. If FRA, after an initial review by the system manager of a request to amend a personal record, disagrees with all or any portion of it, FRA:

1. Advises the individual of refusal and the reasons for it;

2. Informs the individual of procedures to request a further review;

f. If an individual disagrees with the initial determination, the individual may file a request for a further review of that determination. The request for a review should be addressed to:

Attn: Privacy Act of 1974, Office of the Chief Counsel, Federal Railroad Administration, Washington, D.C. 20590.

g. If after this review FRA refuses to amend the record as the individual requested, FRA advises the individual:

1. Of refusal and the reasons for it;

2. Of the individual's right to file a concise statement of the reasons for disagreeing with the decision of the Administration;

3. The procedures for filing the statement of disagreement;

4. That the statement which is filed will be made available to anyone to whom the record is subsequently disclosed;

5. Of the individual's right to seek judicial review of the refusal to amend a record.

h. The final FRA determination on the individual's request is concluded within thirty (30) working days unless the FRA Administrator determines that a fair and equitable review cannot be completed in that time-frame. If additional time is required, the individual is informed in writing of reasons for the delay and of the estimated date on which the review is expected to be completed.

4. Procedures for Establishing Indentity of Individual Making a Request:

a. Disclosure of personnel records requires that the individual produce an identification card: employee identification, annuitant identification, Medicare cards, or driver's license are examples. For records disclosed by mail, FRA requires identifying information to locate the record, i.e., employee identification number, name, date of birth or social security number. A comparison of the signature of the requester and those in the record is used to determine identity.

b. If an individual can provide no suitable documents for identification, FRA requires a signed statement asserting identity and stipulating that the individual understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine of up to $5,000 under 5 U.S.C. 552a(i)(3).

Appendix G—National Highway Traffic Safety Administration

1. Introduction. This appendix, with respect to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration:

a. Describes the places and times at which records will be available for inspection and copying;

b. Indicates the systems of records maintained in the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration;

c. Identifies the officials having authority to deny requests for access to records;

d. Describes the procedures to be followed in requesting correction of a record; and

e. Describes identification requirements which may be in addition to those delineated in § 10.35 of these regulations.

2. Availability for Inspection and Copying. Records of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, hereafter referred to as NHTSA, are located at NHTSA headquarters, Washington, D.C., and at regional office locations, both described below. Records created, collected, maintained and used in various demonstration and research projects as contract requirements of NHTSA are located at various points in the several States and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico.

a. All NHTSA Headquarters offices are open from 7:45 A.M. to 4:15 P.M., each day except Saturdays, Sundays, and Federal legal holidays. The main headquarters Office is located at 400 Seventh Street SW., Washington, D.C. 20590. The Office of Vehicle Safety Compliance, Enforcement Programs; the National Driver Register, Traffic Safety Programs, and the Office of Research and Development are located at the Trans Point Building, 2100 2nd Street SW., Washington, D.C. 20590.

b. NHTSA Regional offices are located at the following addresses and are open during the indicated hours each day, except for Saturdays, Sundays, and Federal legal holidays:

(1) Region I (Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Vermont), 55 Broadway, Cambridge, Massachusetts 02142 (7:45 A.M.–4:15 P.M.).

(2) Region II (New Jersey, New York, Puerto Rico, Virgin Islands), 222 Mamaroneck Avenue (Room 204), White Plains, New York 10601 (7:45 A.M.–4:15 P.M.).

(3) Region III (Delaware, District of Columbia, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia, West Virginia), Airport Plaza Building, 6701 Elkridge Landing Road, Linthicum, Maryland 21090 (8:00 A.M.–4:30 P.M.).

(5) Region V (Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Ohio, Wisconsin), Suite 214, Executive Plaza, 1010 Dixie Highway, Chicago Heights, Illinois 60411 (8:00 A.M.–4:30 P.M.).

(6) Region VI (Arkanasas, Louisiana, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Texas), 819 Taylor Street, Room 11A26 Fort Worth, Texas 76102 (8:00 A.M.–4:30 P.M.).

(7) Region VII (Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska), 6301 Rockhill Road, Kansas City, Missouri 64111 (7:45 A.M.–4:15 P.M.).

(8) Region VIII (Colorado, Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota, Utah, Wyoming), 330 South Garrison Street, Lakewood, Colorado 80226 (7:45 A.M.–4:15 P.M.).

(9) Region IX (American Samoa, Arizona, California, Guam, Hawaii, Nevada), Suite 610, Two Embarcadero Center, San Francisco, California 94111 (7:45 A.M.–4:15 P.M.).

(10) Region X (Alaska, Idaho, Oregon, Washington), 3140 Federal Building, 915 Second Avenue, Seattle, Washington 98174 (7:45 A.M.–4:15 P.M.).

c. NHTSA demonstration and research project records may be created, collected, maintained, and used for the purposes of NHTSA contract requirements. These records are maintained at various points in the several States and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico. Since these project contractors only act as agents for NHTSA, and to prevent unauthorized dsclosure of information that may be subject to the provisions of the Privacy Act of 1974, management of the systems has been retained by appropriate officials of NHTSA. Access to the published systems may be obtained by corresponding with the systems manager indicated for the system of records found in the citations in paragraph 3 of this appendix. Appropriate personal identification must be furnished in accordance with paragraph 4. These officials should be notified of any inaccuracy of the record and, also, are responsible for considering requests for correction or alteration of the record.

3. Systems of Records. A list of NHTSA systems of records pertaining to the Privacy Act indicating the geographic locations and the responsible systems managers has been published in the Federal Register and appears as follows: Vol. 42, No. 181, September 19, 1977, beginning on page 47099.

4. Access to Records.

a. Individuals desiring to determine whether records pertaining to them are contained in systems of records covered by this appendix or desiring access to records covered by this appendix, or to obtain copies of such records, shall make written requests providing appropriate identification of the system and proof of their identity in the same manner as former employees described in 4.c below. When an individual is not capable of personally providing the required information, a second party request may be honored if a duly attested authorization, power of attorney, or appropriate court order is submitted with the request.

b. Decision to release or deny requested records is made by the system manager, identified in the citations of paragraph 3 of this appendix, within ten working days of the receipt of the request. A person seeking review of a denial of the disclosure of a record may appeal to the NHTSA Associate Administrator for Administration, 400 Seventh Street SW., Washington, D.C. 20590, preferably within 180 days of the initial denial. Decision on the request for review is made in writing within 30 working days from the receipt of the request for reconsideration of disclosure. For additional details see sections 10.45 and 10.51 of these rules.

c. Employees and former employees of NHTSA may obtain access to and consideration of the amendment of their records by providing a current Department of Transportation (DOT) identification card (Form D-1600.1.9), a DOT retired employee identification card (Form D-1680.2), Medicare card, attested signed request, or such other identification that may prove the validity of their claims.

d. Since nearly all NHTSA systems of records are maintained on electronic data processing equipment, it may require up to 48 hours to obtain individual records due to computer scheduling requirements. It is in the interest of the individual, therefore, to request information in writing rather than in person.

5. Requests to Correct or Alter Records.

a. Individuals may request correction or alteration of records pertaining to them by addressing such requests to the system managers or the NHTSA Privacy Act Coordinator, the addresses of whom are contained in the citation of paragraph 3 of this appendix.

b. Since the records of the National Driver Register merely contain partial records of the State's motor vehicle records, they are susceptible to correction or alteration only to the extent that such records are at variance with the State records. Persons seeking to correct their State motor vehicle records should address requests to their respective States' motor vehicle licensing authorities.

c. The system manager, in accordance with 49 CFR 10.41, provides written acknowledgment of the receipt of a request to amend a record to the individual within ten working days. If the request can be reviewed, processed, and the individual notified of compliance or denial of the request within the ten working day period, no acknowledgment is required.

d. When decision is made by the system manager to comply with an individual's request to amend the person's record, the following steps are taken within 30 working days from the date of acknowledgment of the request:

(1) Advises the individual of the decision in writing;

(2) Corrects the record accordingly; and

(3) Advises all previous recipients of the record, if an accounting of disclosure has been made, of the correction.

e. When decision is made, after initial review by the system manager of a request to amend a personal record, to disagree with all or any portion of the requested amendment, the following steps are taken within 30 working days from the date of acknowledgment of the request.

(1) Advises the individual of refusal and the reasons therefor; and

(2) Informs the individual of the procedures for appeal to the NHTSA Administrator for further review.

f. If the individual disagrees with the initial determination of the system manager, the individual may file a request for further review of that determination. This request for review should be addressed to the Chief Counsel, National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, 400 Seventh Street SW., Washington, D.C. 20590.

g. If after review the Administrator agrees to the amendment of the record, the procedures of subparagraph 5.d of this appendix are followed. If amendment of the record is refused as requested by the individual, the individual is advised:

(1) Of the refusal and reasons therefore, and the names and titles of positions of each person responsible for the determination;

(2) Of the individual's right to file, together with the appropriate procedures, a concise statement of the reasons for disagreeing with the decision of the Administrator;

(3) Of the fact that the statement which is filed by the requester is made available to prior recipients and anyone to whom the record is subsequently disclosed; and

(4) Of the individual's right to seek judicial review of the administrator's refusal to amend a record.

h. The final determination to refuse an individual's request for amendment of a record is concluded within 30 working days after the receipt of the appeal to the Administrator. If a fair and equitable review cannot be completed by the stipulated time, the Administrator informs the individual in writing of the reasons for delay and provides an estimated date on which completion of the review is expected.

6. Personal Identification Requirements. The NHTSA does not demand any personal identification beyond that specified by § 10.35 of this part.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

Categories of records in the system:

The system data base is comprised of commodity and merchandise processing information relating to Customs administration of trade laws. Certain portions contain no information about individuals. These are the Tariff Schedules of the United States Annotated (TSUSA) file, country file, criteria file for the selection of routine items, Team TSUSA file, district port file, fines, penalties and forfeitures files, collections files, manifest files and the entry master file. The following system files may contain information about U.S. Customs Services employees and/or individuals/companies involved in the import trade. (1) ACS Security File: Contains randomly established five-digit identification codes and passwords assigned to Customs Service employees authorized to use the system. The file consists of the names and identification of all Customs Service employees using the remote terminals to input information into the system. It does not contain Social Security numbers. The degree of access to the system varies according to the users responsibilities in the system. (2) Importer/Broker/Consignee Bond Files and FP and F Violator file: Records consist of importer of record number, importer name, type of importation bond, expiration date, surety code and violation statistics. The importer of record number is used as the method of accessing the files. The number is assigned by any one of three code formats according to availability and the following hierarchy. The first choice is the IRS Employer Identification Number (EIN). The vast majority of importers have the EIN because of the business necessity of it. The second alternative is the Social Security number (SSN). The third alternative is a Customs-assigned number. This file is referenced during entry processing to verify that the individual or company making entry is authorized to import and is properly bonded. (3) Broker Files: A record consists of a three-digit Customs-assigned Customhouse broker number (non-SSN) and the broker name. The file is referenced during entry processing to validate the broker number and to prepare and distribute output from the Automated Broker Interface (ABI) System to the individual or company concerned. Information is disclosed only to the party-of-record. (4) Surety File: A record consists of a three-digit surety code (non-SSN) assigned by the Customs Accounting Division and the surety name. The file is referenced during entry processing to validate these surety codes. No information on surety company affairs is collected or disseminated in the system. (5) Liquidator File: A record consists of a Customs-assigned three-digit liquidator identification (non-SSN) and a Customs employee's name. The employee's liquidator code is input into the system as a means of maintaining quality control and an audit trail on entries liquidated. (6) Manufacturer File: The file contains only a manufacturer code constructed using a formula based on name and address, manufacturer name and address.

Carrier File:

This file consists of carrier names and codes (non-SSN) which are 4 characters (SCAC code) for vessel carriers and 2 or 3 character (IATA) for air carriers. This code is used to validate data input to the manifest and entry processing systems.

The system security officer issues a unique private five digit identification code to each authorized user. The codes are changed periodically to enhance security. All computer terminals are key-locked when not in use. Access to the Customers computer from other than system terminals is controlled through the security software package TOP SECRET. Users must input a unique identification code and password during the terminal log-in procedure to gain access to the system. The password is not printed or displayed at the port of processing.
